CLEVELAND, Ohio- Women in greater Cleveland will rally on Tue, June 28, 2022 outside of the Cuyahoga County Administration building in downtown Cleveland beginning at 4:45pm as we continue our protests over the Supreme Court overturning Roe v Wade. Activists want county council members to speak out for women of greater Cleveland as we fight for our lives and for reproductive rights in Ohio. The Supreme Court decision overturning Roe v Wade relegated authority over abortion to the state legislatures in the country, and women are in trouble in Ohio relative to its largely male and predominantly Republican state legislature.

This event will go forward with or without a county council meeting

This will be a peaceful event. We shall also address other issues, including the allocation of resources where women's issues are not in the budget during a crisis period for women. We also need to know if County Executive Armond Budish and county council will stand up for abortion access for women in Ohio, even if it means offending some Republicans at the statehouse and Gov. Mike DeWine, who has said that he will do everything in his power to get abortion outlawed in Ohio.
